About

The mission of CCHS is to lead and support the advancement of research, education, and enjoyment of Chenango County history. First established in 1939, the Chenango County Historical Society (CCHS) received an absolute charter in 1956. The campus has expanded greatly since then, with the acquisition of the one-room Ross Schoolhouse (Preston), Loomis Barn (Tyner), a maple sugar house, and the Chenango Canal building, home to packet boat model the "Lillie."

Chenango County Historical Society is a member of the South Central Regional Library Council.

Historical Context

As you drive across New York State, you can't help but notice the old burying grounds or cemeteries that are found in cities, villages, fields and forests. Many appear neglected and are slowly disappearing into the landscape. Here, in these hallowed grounds, lie the remains of all those that came before us and helped shape the future of this great state. Their gravestones may be the only historical record that they ever existed.

Early pioneers made gravestones from the local materials that were readily available. This was most often sandstone. Sometimes a professional gravestone carver did not exist yet in the area so the family marked a grave with a fieldstone placed on edge with little or no writing on it. As the community prospered, a carver would appear and start plying his trade.
